1. Introduction

1. Introduction

The “liability of entities for administrative offences resulting from a crime” was introduced into Italian law on June 8, 2001 with the Italian Legislative Decree no. 231 (hereinafter, “Legislative Decree no. 231/2001”).

What is generically referred to as “entities” includes corporations (S.p.A., S.r.l., etc.), which can be deemed liable, and as a result can be subject to pecuniary and/or criminal sanctions, for certain crimes committed or attempted in Italy or abroad in the interest or to the advantage of the Company, by the following parties set forth in article 5, paragraph 1 of Legislative Decree no. 231/2001:

- a) people responsible for the representation, administration or management of the entity or of one of its business units that has financial and operational autonomy, as well as by people who manage and control the entity, also de facto (called parties in top positions or “top management”);
- b) people managed or supervised by one of the parties pursuant to letter a) (called parties subject to management by others).

A pecuniary penalty is always applied for offences committed, while for the most serious cases, there are also interdiction measures such as the suspension or revocation of licenses and concessions, the prohibition against negotiating with the Public Administration, disqualification from conducting the Company’s business, exclusion from or revocation of loans and contributions and the prohibition against advertising goods and services.

The first paragraph of article 6 of the Legislative Decree no. 231/2001 states “If the crime was committed by the parties set forth in article 5, paragraph 1, letter a), the entity is not liable if it proves that:

- a) before the crime was committed, the management body had adopted and effectively implemented Organization and Management Models suitable to prevent crimes of the type committed;
- b) the task of supervising the functioning and observance of these Models, as well as of ensuring that they are updated, has been entrusted to one of the entity bodies which has independent powers of initiative and control;
- c) the parties committed the crime by fraudulently evading the Organization and Management Models;
- d) there was no lack of or insufficient supervision by the body as per letter b).

With respect to the above, considering the content of the Confindustria (Confederation of Italian Industries) guidelines and considering that since the introduction of Legislative Decree no. 231/2001, subsequent legal measures have significantly expanded the range of liable offences, at its meeting on October 26, 2012, the Schaeffler Italia S.r.l. Board of Directors approved the Organization, Management and Control Model (hereinafter also called the “Model”) required by Legislative Decree no. 231/2001 and appointed the Supervisory Body, conferring upon him the autonomous powers of initiative and control set forth in the Decree.

The Supervisory Body keeps a document identifying “Sensitive Activities and Specific Control Standards of Model 231” and distributes it to the relevant corporate departments. Those specific control standards are incorporated within the applicable Company procedures.

The current version of the Model incorporates the organizational and regulatory changes made until March 2021.

The Organization, Management and Control Model is based on the “general principles” introduced and disseminated in the Company through:

The Schaeffler Group Corporate Code of Conduct - Code of Ethics

Health Policy

Human Resources Policy

Environmental and Safety Policy

Similarly, the reference Directives, Guidelines, Procedures and Work Instructions existing in the Company are part of the Organization, Management and Control Model, that arose from the risk analysis in relation to the tasks carried out in the offices / departments of the Company and which are constantly updated according to the changes introduced over time and based on the working experience. They are specifically indicated in point 9. of the Model.

2. The Regulation

The Legislative Decree no. 231 of June 8, 2001 (hereinafter also referred to as Decree), containing the “Regulation on the administrative liability of legal entities, companies and associations with or without legal personality” - also called “entities”, introduced for the first time in Italy the liability of entities in front of criminal courts for certain crimes committed in their interest or to their advantage by people responsible for representing, directing or managing the entity (called top management) or one of its business units that has financial and operational autonomy, as well as by people who manage and control, also de facto, the same, and finally, by people subject to the management or supervision of one of the aforementioned parties. This liability applies in addition to the liability of the natural person who carried out the action.

However, the entity will not be held liable if the crimes were committed in the exclusive interest of the natural person who committed them.

Subsequent to the issue of this Decree, the legislature extended the list of crimes for which the entity can be held liable several times, in a continuous regulatory development which increasingly expands the Decree’s scope of application.

- incitement to not make statements, or to make false statements, to the judicial authority (art. 377-bis, Criminal Code);
- aiding and abetting (article 378, Criminal Code).

2.2 Exemption condition

Pursuant to article 6 of the Decree, the entity can take advantage of a form of exemption from its liability if, during the criminal proceedings for one of the crimes considered, it demonstrates that, before the act was committed, it adopted and effectively implemented Organization, Management and Control Models that were suitable for preventing those criminal offences (hereinafter also referred to as Model).

This system requires that a control Body, called the Supervisory Body, be established within the entity, with the duty of supervising the functioning and updating of the Model.

For that Model to effectively work as an exemption, it must also establish an adequate disciplinary system which penalizes the failure to comply with the Model.

2.3 The Confindustria Guidelines

This Model was drawn up on the basis of the “Guidelines for Creating Organization, Management and Control Models pursuant to Legislative Decree no. 231/2001” (edition updated as of March 31, 2014), issued by Confindustria and approved by the Ministry of Justice (communication Ref. 028.001-58 of July 21, 2014), which can be summarized and outlined as follows:

- identification of risk areas in order to verify in which Company areas the detrimental events set forth in the Decree may occur;
- preparation of a control system able to prevent the risks, the most significant parts of which are:
 - > Code of Conduct - Code of Ethics;
 - > organizational system;
 - > manual and computerized procedures;
 - > powers of authorization and signature;
 - > control and management systems;
 - > staff communications and training.

The control system components must comply with the following principles:

- each operation must be verifiable, documented, consistent and coherent;
- separation of duties (no one should independently manage an entire process);
- documentation of controls;
- establishment of a suitable penalty system for the violation of the Code of Conduct and the procedures set forth in the Model;
- identification of Supervisory Body requirements, which can be summarized as follows:
 - autonomy and independence;
 - professionalism;
 - continuity of action.

The Confindustria Guidelines are general and not absolute, but they are not binding, since this Organizational Model was created based on the operating circumstances of the Schaeffler Group in Italy. Therefore, it could be different from the Guidelines used as a reference in other Schaeffler locations.

2.4 Adoption of the Organizational Model as a crime prevention tool

Schaeffler Italia S.r.l. is aware of the importance of preventing the crimes set forth above and has adopted this Organizational Model in order to make it a useful internal control tool to prevent its directors, employees and representatives from committing those crimes.

The rules of conduct contained in this Model are consistent with those of the Company "Code of Conduct" adopted by the Schaeffler Group (Annex A), although this Model has specific objectives in compliance with Legislative Decree no. 231/01 and will be implemented in line with the provisions of the Regulation EU 2016/679 on the protection of natural persons with regard to the processing of personal data and on the free movement of such data, and aimed at ensuring the development of fair and correct processing by the organizations acting as controller or processor.

Schaeffler Italia S.r.l. aligns itself with the standards set forth in this Model and in the Code of Conduct and may identify additional specific measures related to the distinct characteristics of its operating circumstances.

Consistent with this arrangement, this Model is adopted by Schaeffler Italia S.r.l. which shall adapt the annexes to its specific requirements.

Its continuous application will make it possible to eliminate, or at least decrease to a minimum, the risk that the crimes set forth will be committed and will also make it possible to benefit from an "exemption" in line with the provisions of the Regulation EU 679/2016.

3. Schaeffler Italia S.r.l. Structure

3.1 Principles and elements on which the Model is based

The Schaeffler Group is focused on carefully managing governance and control instruments at the international level. (Omissis)

The principles, rules and procedures set forth in the instruments listed above will not be reported in detail in this Model, but they are part of the broader organization and control system which it intends to supplement. Aside from the above, the key principles which inform the Model are the Confindustria Guidelines, used as the basis for mapping Sensitive Processes.

3.2 System for the assignment of responsibilities, delegations and powers of attorney (Omissis)

3.3 The cash flow management and financial process control system

The proper controls are put into place to ensure that cash flows are always managed correctly and that the decisions made respond to the criteria of transparency and traceability, in order to prevent all crimes considered above.

The financial management area is particularly significant in this context, where procedural controls rely on instruments such as joint signatures based on the values in question (see the Schaeffler Group signatures directive) and the separation of tasks (example: decision to purchase and responsibility for negotiations).

The management control system is therefore responsible for promptly reporting the existence and occurrence of general and/or specific critical situations, also by calculating the appropriate indicators and establishing an authorization system which requires powers of signature assigned in line with organizational and management responsibilities, in order to concretely enact the separation of duties mentioned above.

The central Treasury, Financial Statements and Controlling department managers periodically check and authorize cash flows based on Schaeffler Group guidelines.

The Schaeffler Group has implemented and regularly updates a set of administrative and accounting procedures which ensure that the financial reporting internal control system is highly reliable. (Omissis)

3.4 Safety organization

The crimes of negligent homicide or serious or very serious negligent injury, committed by violating health and safety rules, could be committed in all areas of Schaeffler Italia S.r.l.'s business and could involve all Company employees.

Therefore, in this context, the analysis of the possible ways in which said crimes could be committed corresponds to the risk assessment carried out according to the criteria set forth in current health and safety regulations, set forth in Legislative Decree no. 81/2001.

In compliance with article 30 of the same Decree, Schaeffler Italia has "adopted and effectively implemented" an Organization and Management Model designed to protect it from the administrative liability of legal entities, companies and associations, including those without legal personality.

Furthermore, in order to further cultivate a work culture characterized by safety, in compliance with the measures introduced by current health and safety regulations (article 30, paragraph 5, Legislative Decree no. 81/2008), the Safety Management System implemented at all Schaeffler Group production facilities, and therefore also in Momo, has been certified according to the OHSAS 18001:2007 standard since 2009.

All the aforementioned activities and registration procedures are described in detail in the annexed protocols. With a view to preventing these crimes from being committed, an organizational structure with health and safety duties and responsibilities, defined in full compliance with the Company's organizational and functional structure, has been established for some time.

The structure is headed up by the employer, who has the non-delegable duty of assessing risks and adopting the resulting required documents, as well as designating the Prevention and Protection Service Manager.

He assigns the Safety Officer the powers of organization, management and control needed to adopt and train others on the most effective safety measures and prevention means for employee protection, as well as health supervision and control measures.

For this purpose, this Officer has decision-making autonomy and the authority to incur expenses needed to fulfill this fundamental duty, without which the delegation would lack effectiveness.

This type of organization divides the various obligations among the employer, Officer, managers and supervisors: they are all required, within the scope of their assignments and responsibilities, to observe and apply the health and safety provisions.

This division of accident prevention duties begins from the Officer's obligation to prepare means and structures, it continues along the "corporate line" making the manager responsible for organizing the structures and means provided by the Officer in an adequately safe manner, and it reaches the workers through the fundamental figures of the supervisors, who are required by law to supervise workers to ensure that they accurately comply with the safety measures and procedures prepared by the applicable Company areas.

Finally, those same workers are directly responsible for their own safety and that of others located in the workplace, in line with the training, instructions and means provided to them.

This "structure" is supported by the Company doctor and the Prevention and Protection Service, which assist the employer, the Officer, the managers and the supervisors in preparing and applying an accurate and effective accident prevention policy.

3.5 Environmental protection organization

In light of the introduction of environmental crimes into the text of 231, an Organization which has an environmental management system according to ISO 14001 and/or EMAS is at an advantage, since it continuously and systematically monitors and controls significant environmental aspects, thereby decreasing the possibility that the related crimes will be committed.

The extension of the administrative liability of Entities/Companies set forth in Legislative Decree no. 231/01 to environmental offences, introduced by Legislative Decree of July 7, 2011, has a significant impact on the 231 Organizational Models adopted by Companies whose business activities could, even indirectly and as a result of negligence, damage or harm the environment and health. In fact, this requires the Company to conduct a careful analysis of the risks to which it is exposed and to identify measures aimed at preventing episodes which could entail administrative liability, which could have serious impacts on the business and on the corporate reputation.

In that sense, the ISO 14001 Certification and the EMAS Registration are effective instruments that a company can use to show that it keeps the environmental aspects of its activities under control, and that it is committed to systematically improving them, as well as to being assessed by a third-party certification authority which periodically checks the Company's compliance with environmental regulations.

Although the law did not set forth criteria for the implementation of Organizational Models which can result in exemption, or define the minimum adequacy requirements of Organizational Models in accordance with the UNI EN ISO 14001 standard or the EMAS Regulation (unlike what was set forth concerning Occupational Safety with reference to the UNI-INAIL SGLS guidelines and the OHSAS 18001:2007 standard), it is still evident that the adoption of a Company environmental management system ensures that all regulatory obligations and local ordinances concerning the environment are fulfilled, since this is the minimum requirement to respect the applicable standards.

That respect for the law implicit in the environmental certification, and necessarily also useful to prevent and keep under control the main environmental crime risks, is concretely enacted through:

1. Analysis of potential direct and indirect environmental impacts (including risks in anomalous and emergency situations, their significance and the necessary measures for limiting them).
2. Issue of work procedures and instructions, or adaptation and adjustment of existing ones based on the measures adopted following the aforementioned analyses.
3. Employee information and training.

4. Supervision of workers' compliance with work procedures and instructions;
5. Analysis and assessment of regulatory compliance and periodic monitoring.
6. Periodic review of environmental analyses and the consistency of work procedures and instructions.

Other "guarantee" elements present in a certified Environmental Management System, in view of 231, are:

1. Formalization of roles and responsibilities, as well as of the related management responsibilities.
2. Extension of "operating control" to people who "work on behalf" of the organization.
3. Performance reporting, to provide feedback to the Management and to the Supervisory Body, such as: indicators, NC, audits, etc.
4. Recording in the system, in order to ensure that responsibilities, operations executed, and actions carried out are traceable and documented.

The Momo site has been certified according to the ISO 14001 standard, has been registered with EMAS and possesses an OHSAS 18001 Certification.

4. Structure of the Model in Accordance with Legislative Decree No. 231/2001

4.1 Sensitive activities and the corporate functions involved

Various activities are carried out within Schaeffler Italia, some of which can be considered at risk in terms of the crimes listed.

In order to identify the activities most exposed to these crimes, aside from those concerning safety, a careful analysis was conducted on business processes, risks which could have significant effects with regard to the crimes set forth in Legislative Decree no. 231/2011 were identified and assessed, and they were assessed within a risk assessment process which involved all business areas and the relative managers, therefore making it possible to “map” strategic, operational, financial and legal risks.

A gross risk level was established along with the likelihood that the risk will be realized, the countermeasures implemented to reduce the risk, and the resulting net risk, and consequently procedures or actions will be developed to prevent and counter these residual risks.

Sensitive activities are those activities in which it is deemed that the relevant crimes according to the Decree may be committed, in the interest or to the advantage of Schaeffler Italia.

Those areas were further assessed based on the following evaluation criteria:

- Probability (PR)
- Control effectiveness (E)
- Seriousness of the impact (G)

The assessment method can be found in annex C.

4.2 Mapping results

Based on the results of the mapping described above, it can be affirmed that the sensitive activities within the Schaeffler Group’s business in Italy are:

- relations with the public administration for the issue of concessions, authorizations, agreements, etc.;
- requests for public financing;
- the drafting of the financial statements, reports, accounts and corporate communications required by law;
- relations with Tax Police Officials and Public Safety Officials;
- the hiring of personnel;
- access to and presence and working in workplaces by employees, suppliers, consultants, partners and visitors, as well as the related control activities.

Considering the areas of Schaeffler Italia’s activities, it is deemed that the risk of committing the crimes set forth in the Decree that are not contemplated in the risk map have a remote likelihood of occurring in relation to Schaeffler’s business, and that in any event, the effective enactment of the principles of the Code of Conduct - Code of Ethics, of the Internal Procedures and Directives, as well as of the internal and external work instructions and audits of the systems, constitute is an adequate tool to prevent those crimes from being committed.

4.3 General rules of conduct

In order to prevent the crimes, the conduct of all Schaeffler Italia staff, consultants, partners, suppliers and all parties interacting with the Company for any reason whatsoever must comply with the provisions of Company regulations, this Model and the Code of Conduct (Annex A).

The organization of the Company must respect the fundamental requirements of clarity, separation of roles, responsibility, representation and written hierarchical lines.

The internal procedures must be characterized, if possible, as follows:

- separation of roles within any process between whom defines it, whom carries it out and whom controls it;

- traceability of the different steps of the process;
- simple but effective formalization.

It is forbidden, directly to the employees and to the Corporate Bodies of Schaeffler Italia S.r.l. and indirectly to the companies providing services, to the Advisors and to the Partners, by virtue of specific contractual clauses, to:

- adopt or put into effect single or collective behaviours, which directly or indirectly represent the types of offences within the scope of the Legislative Decree 231/2001;
- violate the principles and the Company procedures provided for in the Company, partially mentioned in the present Model;

In particular, as far as the relationship with the Public Administration is concerned it is forbidden to:

- give money to Italian or foreign civil servants, both directly by Italian companies or by their employees, and by other individuals who act in name of such companies both in Italy and abroad;
- grant advantages of any nature in favour of representatives of the Public Administration;
- influence the decisions of the public servants during any negotiation with the Public Administration;
- render services or recognize a compensation in favour of companies providing services, of advisors and partners, which are not adequately justified in the context of the contractual relationship established with them;
- present untrue declaration to Italian or EU public bodies aiming at obtaining appropriations or government grants.

The Supervisory Body must be informed in writing about any critical situation or conflict of interest which may arise concerning the relationships with the Public Administration.

In the information technology management, it is compulsory to:

comply with the Company and Group rules concerning the use of the systems, the data treatment, the rules of use of the workspace, of internet and the management of passwords.

In the management of the occupational safety and environment:

the Company implements, maintains and efficiently puts into practice the integrated environment and safety management system, aimed at reaching fixed goals, according to the OHSAS 18001, to EMAS and to ISO 14001 standards, which ensures and guarantees compliance with all the legal obligations concerning the two aspects.

In the relationship with contractors:

the Company keeps and constantly updates a register, also available in the electronic form, of the contractors who operate within its plants by means of a contract. These contracts have to be put in writing and have to include, among the different points, references to the compliances with the internal Procedure PGA 06.

In the management of the financial activity:

the Company introduces processes so that the Corporate Bodies, the employees, the advisors and the partners, in the execution of their activities, do not incur in committing crimes pursuant to Legislative Decree 231/2001 (Omissis).

4.4 Amendment and supplementing procedures: reporting to the Supervisory Body

It may be necessary to update this document when new regulations are issued (amending and/or supplementing the Decree) or when organizational changes are made within Schaeffler Italia. The Supervisory Body, following the procedures described below, is responsible for organizing all information received and to suggest the most appropriate changes and updates.

5. The Supervisory Body

5.1 Supervisory Body characteristics, qualification, appointment and term in office

Pursuant to Article 6 of the Decree, it is necessary to identify an internal body which has autonomous powers of initiative and control, with the duties of supervising the functioning and observance of the Model and updating it.

Schaeffler Italia S.r.l., aware of its business and in compliance with the provisions of the By-laws (annex E), has appointed a Supervisory Body which remains in office for three years or until removal by the Company's Administrative Body.

The regulation does not provide specific instructions concerning the composition and nature of this Body; however, they can be found in the Confindustria Guidelines.

5.2 Supervisory Body requirements, powers and duties

The members of the Supervisory Body, or the single member, must be suitably qualified so that the Body can adequately conduct supervisory activities and update the Model with professionalism, competence and continuity of action, in compliance with the independence and autonomy requirements laid down by the regulation.

If the Supervisory Body is appointed with a sole member, the single representative must be chosen from among parties that have specific and proven professionalism, skills and experience relating to the business and inspection activities, and cannot be linked to the Company by employment or significant economic interest (e.g., shareholdings).

The single representative of the Supervisory Body also cannot be a member of the Company's Board of Directors.

Besides the specific professional skills, the single representative and the members of the Supervisory Body must have:

- Autonomy
- Independence
- Integrity
- Professionalism
- Experience in inspections and corporate audits.

In order to satisfy the requirements of integrity and independence, the single representative must not have any conflicts of interest and/or connections with the Company's personnel and/or related parties (including Companies belonging to the same Group), which could hypothetically preclude or limit the objectivity of his or her assessments or his or her independent and autonomous judgment and action when exercising supervisory functions.

The occurrence of one of the following is cause for the removal and/or ineligibility of Supervisory Body members:

- a) one of the circumstances described in article 2382 of the Civil Code;
- b) situations in which the autonomy and independence of the Supervisory Body's single member could be seriously compromised;
- c) the launch of investigations of a Supervisory Body member for crimes punishable under Legislative Decree no. 231/2001;
- d) a conviction (or plea bargain), also not definitive, for having committed, also jointly with third parties, one of the crimes punishable under Legislative Decree no. 231/2001 or the application of a penalty, even temporary, prohibiting him or her from holding public offices or executive offices in legal entities.

Besides the above-mentioned cases, the mandate conferred upon the single representative or one or more members of the Supervisory Body may be withdrawn in the following situations:

- > if the single representative or member of the Supervisory Body no longer satisfies the requirements of integrity;

- > if circumstances occur which could cause the single representative or member of the Supervisory Body to no longer satisfy the requirements of autonomy and independence;
- > if the single representative or member of the Supervisory Body is subject to an interdiction or disqualification, or an illness which would make him or her unable to perform his or her supervisory functions for more than two months;
- > if the single representative or member of the Supervisory Body commits a serious breach of his or her duties as defined in the Model.

The Supervisory Body is assigned the authority to inspect and control the functioning and observance of the Model as a whole. Therefore, the Supervisory Body may conduct audits and controls at any time.

Specifically, to effectively fulfill its duties, the Supervisory Body may:

- have free access to all documents and all information within all departments of the Schaeffler Group companies in Italy, deemed necessary to carry out its required duties;
- rely on the assistance of all employees of the Schaeffler Group companies in Italy, or external consultants, which will work under its supervision and responsibility.

As concerns operations, in accordance with articles 6 and 7 of the Decree, the Supervisory Body is responsible for:

- periodically checking the sensitive area map in order to adjust it based on changes in the activities and/or organization of the Schaeffler Group companies in Italy;
- periodically checking for compliance with the elements set forth in the Model and documenting that activity;
- checking the Model's adequacy and effectiveness at preventing the crimes set forth in the Decree and making sure that it is updated.

Furthermore, in terms of health and safety, the Supervisory Body continuously communicates with the Prevention and Protection Service Manager (RSPP), who has in its regard the same "consulting function" as he or she has in relation to the Employer. Therefore, the RSPP can be qualified as a first level technical/operating control, while the Supervisory Body will be responsible for checking the efficiency and effectiveness of the relevant procedures pursuant to the Decree, or second level control.

5.3 Information Flows to the Supervisory Body

The Supervisory Body is the recipient of all information, documentation and/or communications, also from third parties, regarding the implementation of the Model which could influence Schaeffler Italia's organization and this Model, or in any case inherent to the activities it carries out.

The Supervisory Body must be informed by parties required to observe the Legislative Decree no.231/2001 Organizational Model concerning events that could give rise to Schaeffler Italia S.r.l.'s liability, pursuant to Legislative Decree no. 231/2001.

Each manager or employee must report behavior that is not in line with the principles and content of the Organizational Model by contacting the Supervisory Body.

Anyone who becomes aware of information and/or news, also informal, regarding the commission of crimes set forth in the Document, or in any case regarding possible violations of the Model, must:

- contact his or her manager, who will report directly to the Supervisory Body;
- contact the Supervisory Body directly if, for circumstantial reasons, it is not possible to contact the Manager.

Those reporting in good faith are protected from any type of reprisal, discrimination or penalties, and in any case the confidentiality of the reporter's identity shall be ensured, without prejudice to legal obligations and the protection of the rights of companies or people accused in bad faith.

All concepts within Organization, Management and Control Model of Schaeffler Italia S.r.l., already contemplated since its first approval (October 26, 2012), are now ratified by the following legislative provision:

Article 2) entitled "Protection of the employee or collaborator who reports offences in the private sector" of the Law n. 179 of November 30, 2017, entered into force on December 29, 2017, provides as follows.

- 2-bis. The Models referred to in letter a) of paragraph 1) provide for:
 - a) one or more channels that allow the persons indicated in article 5), paragraph 1), letters a) and b), to present, in order to protect the integrity of the institution, detailed reports of illicit conduct, relevant under this decree and based on precise and concordant factual elements, or violations of the Organization and Management Model of the institution, of which they have come to know due to the functions performed; these channels guarantee the confidentiality of the identity of the reporting person in the management of the report;
 - b) at least one alternative reporting channel suitable for guaranteeing, in informatics manner, the confidentiality of the identity of the reporting person;
 - c) the prohibition of acts of retaliation or discriminatory, direct or indirect, against the reporting person for reasons connected directly or indirectly to the report;
 - d) in the disciplinary system adopted pursuant to subsection 2), letter e), sanctions against those who violate the protection measures of the reporting person, as well as those who carry out with malice or gross negligence reports that prove to be unfounded.
- 2-ter. The discriminatory measures adopted against the reporting person referred to in paragraph 2-bis) may be reported to the National Labour Inspectorate, for the measures under its jurisdiction, as well as by the reporting officer or the trade union organization indicated by him.
- 2-quater. The retaliation or discriminatory dismissal of the reporting party is null. So are the change of duties pursuant to article 2103 of the Civil Code, as well as any other retaliation or discriminatory measure adopted against the reporting person also. In case of disputes related to the application of disciplinary sanctions, or demotions, layoffs, transfers, or other organizational measure having negative effects, direct or indirect, on working conditions of the reporting party subsequent to the report, it is the burden of the Employer to demonstrate that these measures are based on reasons not related to the report itself.

Law n. 179 of November 30, 2017, in article 3) entitled "Integration of the discipline of the obligation of professional secrecy, business, professional, scientific and industrial", establishes also:

1. The pursuit of interest in the integrity of public and private administrations, as well as the prevention and repression of embezzlement, are just cause for disclosure of information covered by obligation of secrecy (as in articles n. 326, n. 622 and n. 623 of the Criminal Code and article no. 2105 of the Civil Code) in case of reporting or complaint in forms and within the limits provided for by article 54-bis of Legislative Decree no. 165 of March 30, 2001, and in article no. 6) of the Legislative Decree no. 231 of June 6, 2001.
2. The provision referred to in paragraph 1) does not apply if the duty of professional secrecy is serious for anyone who has become aware of the news due to a relationship of professional advice or assistance with the institution, the Company or the person concerned.

If the reported information / documents are subject to Company, professional or official secrecy, their revelation in ways that exceed the purpose of eliminating the offense, especially disclosure outside the communication channel specifically prepared for this purpose constitutes a violation of the obligation of secrecy.

Dedicated informational channels have been established to facilitate the flow of communications and information (Annex E). Specifically, all information is addressed to

5.4 Supervisory Body reporting to the corporate bodies

The Supervisory Body reports on the implementation of the Organizational Model, the emergence of any critical aspects and the outcome of activities carried out in fulfilling its assigned duties. The lines of reporting are as follows:

- (I) continuous reporting to the Managing Director, who informs the Board of Directors in the disclosure on the exercise of assigned delegations;
- (II) quarterly reporting to the Board of Directors and the single Statutory Auditor; for this purpose, it prepares a quarterly report on the activity carried out, and indicates the outcome of its inspections and the legislative innovations concerning the administrative liability of entities; at that time, dedicated meetings are organized with the Board of Directors and the single Statutory Auditor.
- (III) immediate reporting to the single Statutory Auditor, after informing the Chairman and the Managing Director, if particularly material or significant events are verified.

The report must also highlight any gaps found in the Model and indicate the corrective actions to be implemented; updating requirements and procedures must also be mentioned.

5.5 Control system and periodic inspections

On an annual basis, the Supervisory Body prepares a plan of its activities, which also defines the frequency of the inspections to be completed pursuant to the Decree, in line with the principles of the Model.

The business areas to be examined are chosen based on the sensitive activities identified in the relative risk assessment.

The Supervisory Body conducts controls on the Model, and for that purpose may take advantage of the assistance of the applicable Schaeffler Italia personnel from the various areas.

Those inspections may also be carried out by personnel from outside the Company to ensure greater impartiality should circumstances so require.

The Supervisory Body conducts its inspections both periodically, according to a calendar defined each year during the activity planning phase, and randomly at its own discretion, to ensure greater attention for compliance with the Model's provisions.

The results of this control are included in the Supervisory Body's obligatory quarterly report and will form the basis for the decision on whether it is necessary to update or amend the Model.

If a Supervisory Body inspection brings to light a violation of the Model or, worse, the commission of one of the crimes set forth in the Decree, the perpetrator shall be sent to the Human Resources Department, which will decide on any disciplinary measures.

5.6 Compensation for Supervisory Body members (Omissis)

5.7 Regulation of the Supervisory Body (Omissis)

5.8 Withdrawal of one or more members of the Supervisory Body (Omissis)

6. Bonus System and Penalty System

6.1 Bonuses and incentives

Based on the legal and contractual provisions, the collective and individual agreements and contracts stipulated, and in accordance with the central Schaeffler Group directives, Schaeffler Italia S.r.l. can decide to provide bonuses to its employees and Managers.

Therefore, in the procedures for defining those bonuses, it is highlighted that earning them is linked to both reaching the required objective and compliance with the Model and the Code of Conduct – Code of Ethics.

Like bonuses, any incentives will also be distributed following the same criteria.

6.2 The penalty system

The establishment of penalties in proportion to the violation and applicable in the event of violation of the Legislative Decree 231/2001 Organizational Model is meant to contribute:

1. to the effectiveness of the Model;
2. to the effectiveness of the Supervisory Body's control actions.

The following are violations of the Legislative Decree 231/2001 Organizational Model:

- a) the implementation of actions or behaviors that are not compliant with the requirements of the Organizational Model and/or of the Code of Conduct - Code of Ethics, or the failure to carry out actions or behaviors required by the Organizational Model and/or of the Code of Conduct - Code of Ethics, when carrying out sensitive activities;
 - b) the implementation of actions or behaviors that are not compliant with the requirements of the Organizational Model and/or of the Code of Conduct - Code of Ethics, or the failure to carry out actions or behaviors required by the Organizational Model and/or of the Code of Conduct - Code of Ethics, when carrying out activities related to Sensitive Activities and/or in management processes, or not complying with the obligations of disclosure to the Supervisory Body set forth in the Organizational Model, which:
 - exposes the Company to an objective risk that one of the crimes set forth in Legislative Decree 231/2001 may be committed
- and/or
- is unambiguously aimed at committing one or more of the crimes set forth in Legislative Decree no. 231/2001 and/or such as to result in the application of the penalties set forth in Legislative Decree no. 231/2001 to the Company.

Please note that the failure to observe applicable Company processes when carrying out Sensitive Activities constitutes a violation of the Legislative Decree no.231/2001 Organizational Model.

If an Employee, Manager or any other party linked in any manner to Schaeffler in Italy violates the Model, the Supervisory Body shall initiate an investigation.

If this investigation confirms that the Model has been violated, the Supervisory Body, as the legitimate party responsible for verifying violations, shall refer the violator to the Human Resources Department, which will decide on whether to apply a disciplinary penalty.

That penalty shall apply regardless of the initiation of any criminal proceeding or civil litigation in relation to the same facts that are the object of the disciplinary measure, since this Model has been adopted by Schaeffler Italia pursuant to and for the purposes of the provisions of Legislative Decree no. 231/2001 and its subsequent modifications and integrations regardless of any tort or crime the conduct of the subjects obliged to comply may result in.

As concerns the type of penalties that can be applied, it is first specified that, if the party is an employee, any adopted disciplinary measure shall comply with the provisions set forth in article 7 of the Statute of Workers' Rights and in the applicable National Collective Labor Agreements.

In the event that a Company of the Schaeffler Group is held liable under criminal or tort law as a result of a violation of the Organizational Model, the conditions for the lawful dismissal pursuant to the applicable provisions of the National Collective Labor Agreements of the author of the conduct that is considered relevant under criminal or tort law could be met.

6.3 Measures against Directors, Managers and Statutory Auditors

The Supervisory Body shall report to the single Statutory Auditor if Directors and Managers violate, or enact behavior which is not compliant with, the procedures set forth in the Model, and shall inform the Administrative Body if such behavior is adopted by one or more of the single Statutory Auditor, so that the appropriate measures may be taken.

6.4 Measures against Managers, Employees and Workers

Employee conduct in violation of the rules and procedures of this Model is defined as a disciplinary offense, therefore the disciplinary measures that can be adopted by the Human Resources Department are those set forth and applied by the National Collective Labor Agreements in force.

The penalties will be in proportion to the seriousness, and any repetition, of the violation, by applying the principle of proportionality, or:

- of the deliberateness of the behavior or the level of negligence, imprudence or lack of skill, also about the predictability of the event;
- of the worker's overall behavior, particularly regarding whether he or she has been subject to previous disciplinary measures;
- the worker's tasks;
- the functional position of the people involved in the events constituting the shortcoming;
- the other specific circumstances of the disciplinary violation.

The disciplinary penalties envisaged by the applied collective contracts are:

- verbal reprimand;
- written warning;
- suspension from work and compensation for up to a maximum of 3 (three) days;
- dismissal for justified reason.

The Human Resources Department shall notify the Supervisory Body of the application of that penalty or the measures for closing the case, along with the relative reasons. All legal and contractual requirements regarding the application of the disciplinary penalty shall be respected.

6.5 Measures against Suppliers, Consultants and Partners

Any violation of the rules pursuant to this Model or the commission of the relevant crimes pursuant to the Decree by Suppliers, Consultants and Partners shall result in the consequences set forth in the specific clauses of their contracts.

7. Employee Selection and Dissemination of the Model

7.1 Employee selection (Omissis)

7.2 Employee training (Omissis)

7.3 Selection of Contract staff, Suppliers and Partners (Omissis)

7.4 Information for Contract staff, Suppliers and Partners

A full disclosure of the principles and content of the Legislative Decree no.231/2001 Organizational Model is provided within and outside of Schaeffler Italia S.r.l.

The Schaeffler Italia S.r.l. Supervisory Body monitors the Legislative Decree no.231/2001 Organizational Model communication and training initiatives.

The Company's Code of Conduct – Code of Ethics, as well as an excerpt from the Legislative Decree no.231/2001 Organizational Model, are provided to all external users on the Schaeffler Italia S.r.l. website.

Contract staff, Suppliers and Partners also receive a disclosure on this Model as an integral part of their contracts with the Company and commit to complying with the organization and management principles set forth in the Code of Conduct – Code of Ethics.

7.5 Dissemination of the Model

The principles and content of the Legislative Decree no.231/2001 Organizational Model are addressed to the members of the Company bodies, to the management and to the employees of Schaeffler Italia S.r.l., as well as to all parties who work to achieve Schaeffler Italia S.r.l.'s objectives.

Employee communications and training are important requirements for the implementation of the Organizational Model. Schaeffler Italia S.r.l. commits to facilitating and promoting management and employee awareness of the Legislative Decree no.231/2001 Organizational Model, with varying levels of detail based on the position and role, and their constructive contribution to gaining a detailed understanding of its principles and content.

Each member of the Company bodies is formally notified of the Legislative Decree no.231/2001 Organizational Model.

All managers and office heads are formally notified of the Organizational Model.

The principles and content of Legislative Decree 231/2001 and of the Organizational Model are also disclosed through training courses. Participation in the courses is mandatory. The Supervisory Body approves the structure of training courses based on the proposal of the applicable Company departments.

The Legislative Decree 231/2001 Organizational Model is posted near Company Info-Points. Targeted information initiatives for middle managers, employees and workers are also defined.

The Legislative Decree 231/2001 Organizational Model is provided to all employees on the Company intranet.

All employees must be made aware of this Model for it to be effectively suitable to prevent the crimes set forth in the Decree from being committed.

The Supervisory Body ensures that the following are carried out for Schaeffler's executives:

- an initial training course, possibly provided electronically;
- email updates;
- periodic meetings and specific training courses.

It also checks that the following are carried out for employees whose jobs involve sensitive activities:

- initial training course, especially geared toward the awareness and application of the procedures set forth in the Model;

- continuous updating on regulatory and procedural developments through internal notifications;
- periodic meetings and specific training courses.

8. Data Processing

All information, communications and reports required by the Organizational Model are kept by the Supervisory Body in a dedicated hard copy and/or adequately protected electronic archive.

Without prejudice to legitimate orders from the Authorities, the data and information kept in the archive is owned by the Company and therefore subject to the protections established by the current legislation on data protection, where applicable.
